

Dear Sirs:

As a Pediatrician, I believe that it would be detrimental to our community to knock the nationally-aired K-Love off the airways for new LPFM stations. K-love is played in my office and I have lots of positive comments regarding the quality of the program. K-Love can be trusted to be encouraging and positive listening for the entire family including my youngest patients. When these families and patients move they can still find K-Love in their new location. We live in a society where our teens are bombarded with sexual exploitation, violence, and discouragement. K-Love provides music for all ages to enjoy with lyrics that are meant to buildup rather than destroy our children's minds. I have teens coming to me for depression, they need the message of encouragement from K-Love's lyrics and "talk" between songs that they can access day or night. K-Love is fulfilling a need that can't be met through television or most other radio programs.

As a father of 4 and a Pediatrician to a couple of thousand future leaders, I am asking you to do all in your power to preserve K-Love's airways so they can continue airing to communities such as our own. Once again, please do not force K-love off the air in our local community and many other communities around the country with Low Power FM stations.

Sincerely,

John E. Montgomery, MD
